The Sixteenth Round: From Number 1 Contender to Number 45472 Rubin "Hurricane" Carter

The survivor of a difficult childhood and youth, Rubin Carter rose to become a top contender for the middleweight boxing crown. But his career crashed to a halt on May 26, 1967, when he and another man were found guilty of the murder of three white people in a New Jersey bar. While in prison, Carter chronicled the events that led him from the ring to three consecutive life sentences and 10 years in solitary confinement. His story was a cry for help to the public, an attempt to set the record straight and force a new trial. Bob Dylan wrote a classic anthem for Carter's struggle; and Joan Baez, Muhammad Ali, Roberta Flack, and thousands more took up the cause as well. Originally published in 1974, this account is an eye-opening examination of growing up black in America, problems in the United States prison system, and Carter's own battles.

Review

"Carter's scorching and poetic autobiography." --"Toronto Sun"

"A document of life lived in the center of hell." "Sports Illustrated"

"When they come to list the greatest boxers, Hurrigan's name isn't likely to pop up in the Top 10. But when they come to list the greatest figures of the 20th century, he'll be alone at the peak." "Boston Globe ""

"A shocking, savage and brilliant indictment of racial injustice and the inhumanity of the prison." "Globe and Mail""

"Carter's scorching and poetic autobiography." "Toronto Sun"" About the Author
